Blue pantsu. sky blue pantsu. That answers your question.. A decent little turn-based strategy war game.

Gameplay is an army vs army border shoving match. Players stack units on friendly tiles, then clash with opponents' stacks on adjacent tiles. Higher stack number overtakes lower stack number, and the player is left with the difference on the newly occupied tile. The number of armies you can place each turn depends on the health of your economy, as managed by allocating resources to tiles with cities on them. You can place up to 3 armies per friendly tile per turn, and move them one space to an adjacent tile. Win by controlling all the tiles on the map.

The menus aren't very intuitive, but there's only a few buttons and you can figure out what they do within the first couple of turns. Also, to play again you have to exit and restart the game as far as I know.

I visited the Reddit page where there are some contrib maps, and they do work well with a simple copy-paste of some txt. The game locked up a bit when loading a bigger map but eventually came through just fine.

Overall I'm very satisfied with my purchase and I think the game will have good replay value.. Market Tycoon is an upgrade from most tycoon games on the market today. The games team still has some work to do. If they do it right it could be one hell of a game.. Ver gud gam. this game blows sandy cat balls. There is nothing wrong in this game and, it even has some original puzzles not seen in other games of this kind but... I don't know why, I didn't enjoyed it. It lacks Idunnowhat.. Awesome, little game. Simple and enjoyable.. The series costs too much even on sales. I am sure I'll wait for discount on the next tittle or just give up.. Great game! I played it for 9 hours, and i got all the achievments. Totally worth the 4.99E. Wanted to like this one as keen to support vr educational experiences but you can't move around, you just point at installations and sometimes it starts telling you a mythological story but sometimes it just links up the stars with an overlaying picture and the constellation name. And it doesn't have any feeling of being "there" which I've had with other space educational vr experiences. If it was in a planetarium i'd stop for a couple of mins and move on. More like a pseudo interactive 3D educational video, Going to keep it out of support to the idea but planetary socks need pulling up if this is going to be any good in the longer term.

Best Game featuring Heroes, Ever!. Visually beautiful and potential to become an amazing game. This game brings a lot to the table with its dynamic leveling system. If you want my full opinion check out my video about it here: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7eQ0bRKNnFU>. Doodle God feels much more suited for your cell phone rather than a computer, even though it started out as a computer game. It's alright to try and guess all the possible matches, but after some time it becomes repetitive and it kills the fun factor of discovery when you just want to look up the answers in order to complete the game. Hints can only do so much for you, after all.. I've had such a blast playing this game. Although I've cut it a lot of slack because it's the first phase of early access, as it presents tons of completely new ideas that me and friends have had a lot of fun playing with. IMO, humans are the hardest race to play right now--which explains why no one is playing them. People say dragon is the most difficult, but If you find a group of people to play with--dragon becomes very easy. I say humans are the most difficult because the crafting recipes are so complicated. For example, if you were to build stairs, you'd have to build the frame first, cut all the boards for the individual steps, and then make a TON of nails to nail it all together.

In its current state, people who are picky might wanna hold off on buying it. I for one, as someone who has a group of people to play with and neutral standards, and as someone who loves both dragons and survival games, have had a huge amount of fun even in this first update just playing as a dragon alone. It takes a while and a lot of work, but getting to grow into a big winged reptile is completely and totally worth it!!! You go from the weakest thing in the game that's constantly looking over its shoulder and running from snakes, to a big beastie that's comfortable going afk for 5 minutes because EVERYTHING is scared of you.

And don't believe what other people say--it is more than possible to grow a dragon by yourself. Difficult yes, but not impossible, as I've seen many people do it already. Getting to take off into flight as a dragon for the first time, after hours upon hours of hard work, was the greatest feeling in the entire game to me. It's also pretty tough to get the hang of flight controls--I'll say, they aren't the best, but eventually once you get used to the controls it's pretty easy.

Also, I'm not sure if it's intended, but dragons + humans working together is great! There are a lot of ways they can help each other and it almost feels like the game is designed for human + dragon interaction and cooperation. Those huge scary raknar in the caves add an awesome touch to the game especially for people who enjoy PVP and scaring people.

For anyone reading, I've been following the game for about 2 years--here's some things I've heard might be added to the game from the devs themselves!

- Ice dragons are definitely going to be added.
- Ice + Fire dragons will get buffs/nerfs depending on what biome they're in.
- Lots of dragon customization such as choosing between male/female and different horn options
- Nest customization for dragons
- Magic for humans, possibly fueled by nuggets.
- A secret planned feature that the devs have yet to reveal. I haven't heard them talk about it in some time though.
- Raknar will be able to hatch tiny NPC raknar to do their bidding

That's all I can recall right now. In summary--I've had fun, will probably continue to have more fun as the game develops.

I do wanna mention that the models are very sub-par, but the game was originally built in unity after all. They will be upgrading the animations AFAIK, so don't assume what it's like right now is going to represent the finished project. Walk.

(Repeat). This software is indeed an interesting experience.

What it lacks in gameplay it makes up for in visuals and exploration.

The soundtrack is great.

The options menu is fun.

Basically it is a digital one night stand.

. I'm normally the type of person to get motion sickness in VR, so I was convinced I'd get sick here. Somehow I'm not, though. I dunno what you did, but I'm able to fly around and do all kinds of maneuvers with no problems at all.

Eagerly awaiting multiplayer so I have something to shoot at!. negative: not scary at all; scale was off (body too smal); tracking issues (moving my head was also moving scene) positive: free; nice butterfly. great game, if you seen wakfu, but you dont have a computer to run wakfu, then play dofus, its a similar game with good gameplay and if your a patient person and like the turn-based rpg games, then get the game!. Nice player.

But PotPlayer (Successor of KMPlayer) still wins.

At least in

1. Subtitle control. (Potplayer auto loads the subtitles with the same filename)
2. Language support.
3. Video format support.

Hope you can catch up with the freeware!
